What does it feel like to have covid-19

Edurne tells us about her experience with the disease

Lucas Martínez Arnáiz, journalist of the Delibes News, conducts an interview with Edurne Muriel Gibaja, fifth grade who recently passed the coronavirus. Edurne tells us how she felt very sad when knowing her positive, after a first negative PCR.

She was worried about the health of her family, especially her grandparents.

She was not asymptomatic and lost her appetite during her quarantine.

She had severe headaches, a high fever, and was very tired.

At the end of the interview, he told us how she felt happy to know that everything had happened and how she went out to breathe fresh air.

You were a brave Edurne and we wish you the best.

Thank you for telling us about your experience and let us remember that the rules must be followed to avoid contagion and transmit the disease to other people.

Thank you Edurne.
